A WORD ABOUT STEREO 8, CASSETTE AND REEL TAPE

Stereo 8—Perfect for home, boat or car use, eight track cartridges are easy to handle and play up to 80 minutes of good listening (the equivalent of either one or two stereo L.P. records in one cartridge). They are played automatically from beginning to end without rewinding or turning over. Yet you may switch instantaneously at the touch of a button to any of four different programs. A listener's delight!

Cassettes—Self-contained compact cassettes are designed for people on the go—especially geared for portable units as well as home playback systems. The cassette has virtually all the advantages of open reel and cartridge styles. About half the size of cartridges, cassettes provide up to one hour of playing time. Play one side, slip the cassette out, flip it over, and another stereo track is ready for exciting listening. Fast forward and rewind offers ease of specific track selectivity.

Reel—Music buffs are the champions of Reel Tape. Play the stereo program on one side and then flip for the programming on side two. Pre-recorded reel tapes offer the highest quality of tone reproduction, provide easy selectivity with fast forward and rewind and play up to two hours of solid enjoyment.

ED AMES

The versatile Ed Ames is not only among the best-selling artists on the RCA Records label, but also doubles as a TV and stage performer of note—and as a class nightclub attraction. Nightclub audiences aren't new to Ed. He first achieved international stardom in the early '50s in clubs and on records as lead singer with the Ames Brothers.

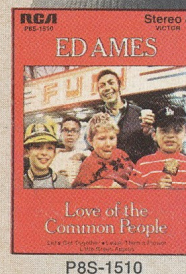

In 1960 Ed decided to change the course of his career and left the brother act for the stage. His performances in "The Fantasticks," in the National Company and Broadway casts of "Carnival," and "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" received critical acclaim. Of course, his three seasons as Mingo on the "Daniel Boone" TV series are now history.

When Ed began his theatrical career he ceased all recording activity, but in 1964 was approached by RCA and asked to record an album of show tunes. Six years later he is still combining his theatrical and recording lives quite successfully.

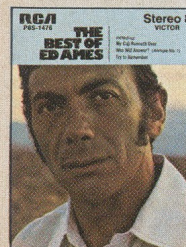

Ed, a frequent guest on network variety shows, is an accomplished linguist who speaks French, German, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese and Norwegian fluently, and Russian passably well. His future plans include a directorial debut and a venture into both opera and Shakespearean drama.

Love of the Common People 11 popular songs reflect Ed's great style. Includes This Guy's in Love with You; (The) Love of the Common People; Leave Them a Flower; Put a Little Love in Your Heart; Little Green Apples; Games People Play. Stereo 8 P8S-1510; Cassette PK-1510

PAUL ANKA

Ottawa-born Paul Anka's stardom is a well-documented fact. He wrote and recorded "Diana" at 15, was the youngest entertainer ever to star at New York's Copacabana, starred on Broadway in "What Makes Sammy Run?," wrote Johnny Carson's Tonight Show theme, and was the first popular entertainer from the West to perform behind the Iron Curtain.

Paul Anka, the recording artist, has been honored with 18 Gold Records for his own recordings sung in French, German, Italian, Spanish and English, and his recording of "Ogni Volta" made him the first American artist to have a million seller in Italy.

This was the Paul Anka of the '60s. The Paul Anka of the '70s is two people inhabiting the same body and mind. One is the magnetic recording artist and performer and the other is the gifted contemporary composer, both of whom will continue to excite audiences everywhere and win awards.

EDDY ARNOLD

It has been a quarter of a century since Eddy Arnold cut his first record, and during that time he has become somewhat of a living legend.

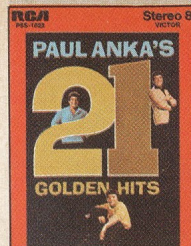

It's "a fur piece down the road" from the day he bought his first mail-order guitar and four 75-cent lessons from a traveling salesman. "A fur piece" to appearances at the Empire Room of the Waldorf-Astoria and Carnegie Hall, to election to the Country Music Hall of Fame, and to his sales of over sixty million records.

Eddy has been instrumental, perhaps more so than any other entertainer, in moving country music into the mainstream of pop music. With his warm style and relaxed manner, he reaches vast audiences through his many concert and club dates, and nationwide TV appearances. To quote the title of his autobiography, "It's a Long Way from Chester County."

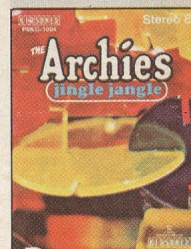

The Best of Eddy Arnold, Vol. II The second collection of Eddy's biggest hits. Misty Blue; It's Over; The Tip of My Fingers; Then You Can Tell Me Goodbye; Somebody Like Me; Lonely Again; 6 others. Stereo 8 P8S-1566; Cassette PK-1566

CHET ATKINS

Mister Guitar—signed to his RCA recording contract by mail and destined to become Division Vice President for Popular Artists and Repertoire in Nashville.

The master musician and top guitarist's roots go back to the mountains of Tennessee, where his father taught piano and voice and an old wind-up phonograph provided entertainment. Chet did stints on a variety of radio stations around the country, and in 1950 became a regular member of the Grand Ole Opry.

With over 30 albums to his credit and more than 3 dozen artists from around the world dependant upon his taste, musical knowledge and executive ability, Chet still finds time to perform in a wide variety of musical settings. These range from soloist appearances with symphony orchestras to a date at the Newport Jazz Festival to a performance for President Kennedy at the White House. He also tours weekly with the Masters Festival of Music roadshow.

Grammy-winner Chet has been chosen Outstanding Instrumentalist for 12 consecutive years by Cashbox, and has twice won the Playboy poll as Best Guitarist.

HARRY BELAFONTE

One of the world's best known performers, Harry Belafonte possesses the unique combination of creative artist and commercial success. From the almost accidental beginning of singing one song in a Drama Workshop production, Belafonte rose to the heights of full-fledged Broadway, Hollywood and TV star and recording artist whose sales are well into the millions.

He has an uncanny ability to break attendance records whether he is appearing in the United States or abroad, and his first TV special won the Emmy award for the top musical performance for that year. Since then he has appeared on many specials and is a welcome and articulate guest on TV's talk shows.

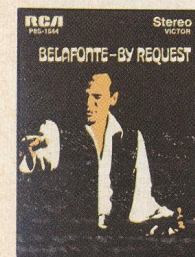

Belafonte devotes much of his time to the fight against injustice and all forms of intolerance. He is a former cultural advisor to the Peace Corps and has been a leading architect of the Civil Rights movement.

He and his family make their home in New York City.

Julian Bream is a musician of diversified tastes whose idols are Django Reinhardt and Andres Segovia—a classical musician who's on the same wave length as today's generation.

Hailed as Britain's finest guitarist and lutenist, Julian Bream gave his first professional recital in London at the age of 17. He had begun playing the piano at 10, but a year later switched to guitar.

In 1950 he met Thomas Goff, the famed harpsichord maker who, feeling that an Elizabethan instrument would give the music more authenticity, offered to build Bream a lute.

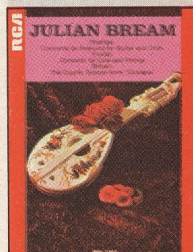

Julian made his first U.S. tour in 1958, and his first world tour in 1962. During the latter, he developed a keen interest in Eastern music, particularly that of India.

He was awarded the O.B.E. by Queen Elizabeth in 1964 and in the summer of 1965 inaugurated his international summer school for guitarists, which is attended by 15 exceptional students from all over the world.

Rodrigo: Concierto de Aranjuez for Guitar and Orchestra; Vivaldi: Concerto for Lute and Strings Wide-ranging repertoire—from Baroque to contemporary—by one of today's most versatile guitarists. Includes Courtly Dances from Benjamin Britten's "Gloriana." Stereo 8 R8S-1052

VAN CLIBURN

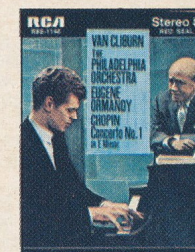

In 1958 a young American pianist attained immediate international fame when he won first prize in the Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow. 12 years later, Van Cliburn still stands as one of the great pianists of the age. He is the only classical artist in history to have a record album sell one million copies. He was also the first musician to receive a New York ticker-tape parade.

Van learned to read music at the age of 3 and first played in public at 4. By the time he was 6, it was obvious he was headed for a concert career.

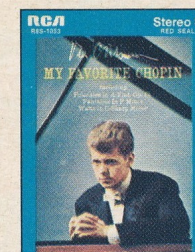

His awards are innumerable and his career is one of the busiest in the music world. In the course of a year, he performs as many as 125 times with orchestras and in recitals around the world.

PERRY COMO

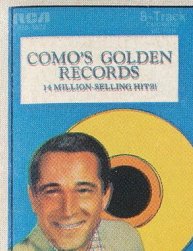

The man who has made a career of relaxation was born in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania. At the age of 14, he became an apprentice barber and, after graduating from high school, opened his own barber shop. At the urging of friends, he auditioned for the Freddy Carlone Band and was hired as the Ohio group's vocalist. After an additional six-year stint with Ted Weems' band, Perry was on the verge of going back to barbering when, in 1942, he was offered a radio show of his own at $100 a week. He took it. The next year he made his first record for RCA, "Goodbye Sue," and in 1945 he got his first million-copy seller, "Till the End of Time," one of more than a dozen Como discs which have topped the million sales mark.

Como made the first of several movies, "Something for the Boys," in 1944, and started his "Chesterfield Supper Club" radio show the same year. The show moved to TV in 1948, and in 1955 he began the full-hour, weekly "Perry Como Show," also on TV, and later, "Perry Como's Kraft Music Hall." Now he devotes himself to yearly TV specials.

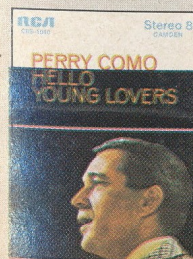

His hobbies are his family, watching television and "walking slow and winning," whether it's on the golf course or in the entertainment world.

FLOYD CRAMER

Few instrumentalists in popular music today have been able to approach the track and chart record of RCA Records' distinctive pianist from Nashville, Floyd Cramer. From the time his first single "Last Date" was released in 1960, he has had a steady string of big hits, each characterized by the striking Cramer touch that has come to be instantly recognizable anywhere in the recording world.

Floyd was born in Shreveport, Louisiana and showed an interest in music at an early age. It was not until he graduated from high school, however, that his career began to take shape. In 1951, he became part of the Louisiana Hayride radio show, and before long he was touring with such stars as Hank Williams and Elvis Presley.

In 1955, at the suggestion of RCA's Chet Atkins, Floyd moved to Nashville and was invited to join the famed Grand Ole Opry. He rapidly became a very busy studio musician and shortly thereafter released his now-classic "Last Date." The rest is history.

Frequent personal appearances and recording dates in Nashville keep Floyd Cramer a very busy man indeed.

The Big Ones, Vol. II Floyd starts the '70s with a second set of top tunes from the past decade. Softly, As I Leave You; Theme from Two Twenty Two; Both Sides Now; Midnight Cowboy; Something; Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head; 5 others. Stereo 8 P8S-1557; Cassette PK-1557

JOSE FELICIANO

The Cleveland Press wrote the following words about a young Puerto Rican artist: "Take the most talented single performers in folk, pop, rock, soul, underground, rhythm and blues, or any form of music. Put them all together, and you get Jose Feliciano!"

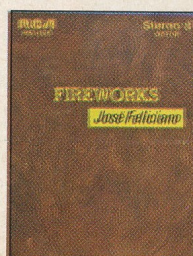

Jose mastered the guitar by himself to a degree almost unequalled, and has since gone on to the bass, banjo, organ, 12-string guitar and piano, to name only a few.

His first public performance was at El Teatro Puerto Rico in New York's Spanish Harlem when he was nine. He was signed to his RCA contract in 1963, after having been seen at a club in Greenwich Village, and since then has recorded a collection of top albums.

He has been featured on his own Spanish language TV program and made guest appearances on a wide variety of shows. He continually electrifies audiences from Las Vegas to London with his incredible virtuosity and personal intensity, and has been honored by the National Association of Recording Arts and Sciences with two Grammys.

ARTHUR FIEDLER

The Boston Pops with Arthur Fiedler as their conductor have become an American institution. While Fiedler has been their conductor only since 1930, the orchestra's tradition goes back 85 years to 1885, when the first "promenade concert" was given in Boston.

Since that time they have become known to millions of people throughout the world via their RCA recordings. Their catalog listing is larger than that of any other orchestral group, and their rendition of "Jalousie" was the first classical single record to sell over one million copies.

THE GUESS WHO

With four straight hits under their belts, The Guess Who is now permanently established on the American music scene. The quartet had been grooving around the Canadian provinces for three years when RCA Records signed them in 1969, and the export of their brand of rock has brought a fresh dimension to the music of the states. The four musicians who make up The Guess Who all hail from Manitoba in the Canadian West. Lead guitarist Randy Bachman and lead singer Burton Cummings also write most of the group's material. They're joined by Jim Kale on bass and Garry Peterson on drums in the making of the top Guess Who sound.

High Fidelity critic Gene Lees wrote recently, "In all current popular music, there is, in my opinion, only one lyricist fit to be called a poet, and that's John Hartford." There's only one John Hartford. He sees the world through strange windows, but the poetry he creates bridges the fields of country, folk and pop. His "Gentle on My Mind" won a Grammy as the Best Country and Western Song of 1967, as well as one for the Best Folk Performance.

There's no special Hartford formula for a song. John just jumps into lyrics feet first, saying exactly what he feels—ranging all the way from black depression through wry humor.

He has performed at the Newport Folk Festival, on tour with the Smothers Brothers, and spent a season with Glen Campbell on the latter's weekly TV show.

Housing Project Writer and singer of Gentle on My Mind offers a group of winners. Includes the title song; I Didn't Know the World Would Last This Long; The Sailboat Song; The Girl with the Long Brown Hair; 8 others. Stereo 8 P8S-1349

JEFFERSON AIRPLANE

The prime exponent of what is known as the San Francisco sound is RCA Records' Jefferson Airplane. The Airplane has its roots planted in the Bay area, and was the first group from there to gain a strong national following. Jazz critic Ralph Gleason stumbled across the Airplane in 1965 in a local nightspot and announced them as "one of the best rock groups playing today." Two years later he wrote in his syndicated column, "It is the best rock band in the country."

The Airplane draws massive crowds whether they are appearing in the Fillmores East and West or at free rock concerts in New York City or Chicago parks. The crowds are there to hear as Jefferson Airplane sings not of protest, but of love.

Eleven years after Mario Lanza's untimely death in Rome on October 8, 1959, the Lanza legend increases rather than diminishes. New fanclubs spring up annually (the most recent ones in Russia, Yugoslavia and Romania) and Lanza's Red Seal recordings are as successful as they were during the beloved tenor's all too short lifetime. The Mario Lanza Institute in the singer's home town Philadelphia, awards annual prizes to talented young singers, providing for their vocal studies, coaching, dramatic studies and solfeggio. California's Cultural Center in Los Angeles has dedicated a Mario Lanza Room where visitors can not only see most of the tenor's memorabilia but listen to his many RCA Red Seal Records and Tapes.

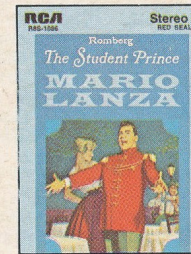

Lanza's meteoric career began during a Christmas church service in a South Philadelphia church when he sang—to the utter surprise of his neighbors—Gounod's "Ave Maria." From there the road went to the Tanglewood Festival at the invitation of Maestro Serge Koussevitzky; his next engagement was with the U.S. Army but soon thereafter Lanza's first Hollywood Bowl engagement led to a multi-picture contract with MGM. His third film, "The Great Caruso," established Lanza as a super-star of unparalleled proportions among singers.

HENRY MANCINI HIS ORCH.

By any set of standards, Henry Mancini is one of the giants in the world of pop music. His recordings have won 18 Grammys and 4 Gold Album Awards and his film work has been honored with 8 Academy Award nominations and 3 Oscars. As a concert artist he regularly fills auditoriums to overflowing.

At the age of eight, Henry was introduced to the flute, at twelve, he took up the piano, and within a few years became interested in arranging. After high school he enrolled in the Juilliard School of Music, but broke off his studies in 1943 to join the Air Force. Following his release from the service he joined the Glenn Miller-Tex Beneke Orchestra where he met his wife, Ginny, who was singing with the band.

Mancini's use of the jazz idiom in his scoring of the "Peter Gunn" TV series created an instant success and resulted in his first Gold Record. The list of hits since then includes such world-wide favorites as "Moon River," "Days of Wine and Roses," "The Pink Panther" and a multitude of others that all bear the unmistakable Mancini stamp.

NILSSON

Singer... songwriter... film and television composer... Broadway lyricist... star... Nilsson. One of the hottest multi-talented personalities in the business today, Nilsson only a few short years ago was a supervisor at the Security First National Bank Computer Center in Van Nuys, California, who moonlighted by ghosting demo records and singing TV jingles.

Born and raised in Brooklyn, Nilsson moved to Los Angeles over a dozen years ago and discovered the fascination of listening to Ray Charles. Once he graduated from high school he started making the rounds of the recording studios, playing his songs for anybody who'd listen. It paid off when some of his material was used by the Ronettes and the Modern Folk Quartet. Now everybody's talkin' about Nilsson and his songs have found their way into the repertoire of such diverse artists as Harry Belafonte, Blood, Sweat and Tears and Mary Hopkin.

EUGENE ORMANDY, THE PHILADELPHIA ORCH.

It is difficult to think of Eugene Ormandy without also thinking of The Philadelphia Orchestra, so fused are the two in the public's eye. Indeed, it is an association that quite frequently is called a love affair.

Of course, Ormandy did have a most respectable music career prior to joining the Philadelphia.

It was in 1931 that he was given the opportunity to replace an indisposed Toscanini as guest conductor of The Philadelphia Orchestra. It turned out to be such a triumph for the young conductor that he immediately was engaged as music director of the Minneapolis Symphony. It was there that he made his first RCA recordings which spread his fame throughout the world. In 1936 he returned to Philadelphia as co-conductor and the music directorship of The Philadelphia Orchestra, one of the prizes of the music world, became his. When Ormandy talks about his orchestra a fond smile and twinkle come to his blue eyes and you realize the permanence of the great romance between conductor and orchestra. But when he and the orchestra perform, their romance is laid open for the world to see . . . and hear.

Bartok: Four Pieces for Orchestra The first recording ever of this phenomenal contemporary work, performed with superb artistry by Ormandy and the Philadelphians. (Also includes Bartok: Concerto No. 2—Alexis Weissenberg) Stereo 8 R8S-1156; Cassette RK-1156

She had to happen. She's been writing songs since she was five. Dolly Parton writes soul lyrics about tough times, simple pleasures and love. And she sings the way she writes.

Dolly really has a storybook legend. The dress she wears today is a long way from the one made from a gunny sack back in rural Tennessee where she was born and raised. These days Dolly lends her beauty and talent to the Grand Ole Opry, the Porter Wagoner TV show and cross-country tours. She and Porter have become one of the most popular duet teams in the country, and it was no surprise that in 1968 they were given the Country Music Association award as best duet of the year.

ELVIS PRESLEY

The recorded voice of Elvis Presley has been heard by more people in the world than that of any other performing artist in the history of the recording industry.

In the fifteen years that he has been one of the all-time great stars, Elvis has done more than create statistics. He changed the shape of American pop music, influenced the personal and entertainment tastes of millions of teenagers, and opened the way for almost every new craze to come along since 1955.

As a young boy in Tupelo, Mississippi, Elvis often sang in church. When he won a music contest at a local fair by singing "Old Shep" his parents bought him his first guitar. In 1953 he wandered into the Sun Record Company in Memphis to make a solo recording for himself. A year later he was asked to record for Sun as a professional.

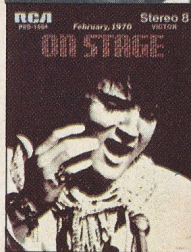

RCA Records produced their first Presley recording in January 1956 and within a few months "Heartbreak Hotel" shook the entire entertainment industry. The rest is history and an impressive list of statistics. Over 250,000,000 copies of Elvis Presley records have been sold all over the world; 32 motion pictures have been released; 50 singles have earned Gold Records, and 10 albums have achieved the same status. Overnight success became a long-term career.

On Stage—February, 1970 Elvis has outdone himself again on this collection of remarkable blockbusters, recorded live at the International Hotel in Las Vegas. See See Rider; Release Me (And Let Me Love Again); Sweet Caroline; Runaway; Yesterday; Let It Be Me (Je t'appartiens); and 4 others. Stereo 8 P8S-1594; Cassette PK-1594; Reel Tape TP3-1043

Leontyne Price first created waves of excitement in the music world in a Juilliard School production of "Falstaff." This resulted in a major role in Virgil Thomson's "Four Saints in Three Acts," and her subsequent highly successful State Department tour and Broadway run as Bess in the 1952 production of "Porgy and Bess."

Leontyne left the show after 2 years to pursue her concert career, and in November, 1954, made her formal New York recital debut in Town Hall. Born in Laurel, Mississippi, Leontyne began her musical career at the age of 5 with piano lessons. She continued the piano throughout her school days and decided to become a music teacher until her vocal talent was discovered in the glee club of Central State College in Wilberforce, Ohio. She was ultimately awarded a scholarship to Juilliard.

In the fall of 1957, she made her debut with the San Francisco Opera Company, and in January of 1961 made her Metropolitan Opera debut to a 42-minute ovation.

The soprano was invited by President Johnson to sing at his inauguration in 1965 and was later awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom. She also holds the Order of Merit of the Italian Republic "for her internationally acclaimed performance of Italian operas on world stages and through recordings."

R. Strauss: Salome; Egyptian Helen (Excerpts) Leontyne Price's singing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra's lush tone makes this exciting album a must for opera and orchestra fans.

The annual Music City News poll of the nation's country music DJs for 1969 named Charley Pride Number One Male Artist of the Year. This honor was only one among the many that have been awarded Charley since he gave up a baseball career for music.

Charley, as a black performer, is the first of his race to be recognized as a major talent in the world of country music. It is a long way from the Mississippi cottonfields where he spent his childhood and from his brief stint as a pitcher and outfielder for the Los Angeles Angels.

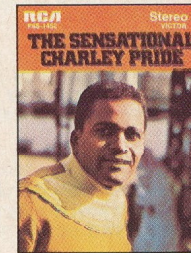

A fine singer and guitarist, Charley is one of the hottest tickets in country music, drawing sellout houses on completely booked-up tours and in the top country music rooms throughout the nation and Western Europe.

ARTUR RUBINSTEIN

To each individual the image of Artur Rubinstein is different. To the concert hall manager Rubinstein means putting chairs on the stage and standing room only. His audiences buy their tickets first and then check the program. To the record industry he is the best-selling classical pianist of all time. Airline stewardesses see his familiar face as he travels to his many concerts. And to music critics, Rubinstein in his 80s is at the height of his interpretive powers.

The Rubinstein career is legend, beginning with his formal debut in Berlin at the age of 11. He holds Honorary Doctorates from many universities, has been decorated by the governments of France, Chile, Spain, Portugal and many others, and is an honorary member of the famous Accademia di Santa Cecilia in Rome.

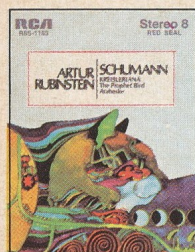

The phenomenal artistry of Rubinstein the musician is surpassed only by the tremendous love of life demonstrated by Rubinstein the man.

Schumann: Kreisleriana; The Prophet Bird; Arabeske Three works performed with great feeling and finesse by Rubinstein, including Schumann's great piano cycle Kreisleriana. Stereo 8 R8S-1153; Cassette RK-1153

Nina Simone was born in Tryon, North Carolina, the sixth of eight children. As a youngster she learned to play the piano by ear and was quite proficient on the organ by the time she was 11. A local music teacher offered to train her at no charge and she later spent a year and a half at the Juilliard School of Music.

When she was 19 a nightclub owner in Atlantic City hired her and told her she'd have to sing as well as play. Once the initial shock was over, she began singing spirituals and the audience ate it up.

She's a tough, vibrant singer/pianist who acquires new fans with every record and concert and everything she does bears the stamp of her strong, highly personal style.

PORTER WAGONER

Porter Wagoner is as much to RCA Records' country roster as the Grand Canyon is to Arizona.

It's hard to find a week when Porter Wagoner songs are not listed in the Top 40 country charts. The thin man from West Plains, Missouri, has one commitment—to entertain and make people happy. And in this he has most certainly succeeded. Few artists can claim the weekly audience his TV show has, and in making appearances he probably grinds out more mileage on the highways than any dozen truck drivers combined. Further proof of his personal success is that most of his troupe joined him when he first started and they're still there.

Whether he's singing a prison song, heart song or happy song, Porter Wagoner will be pleasing many a musical appetite for years to come.

The Best of Porter Wagoner, Vol. II Porter offers 11 songs, all of which were big hits, like Little Boy's Prayer; Pastor's Absent on Vacation; The Carroll County Accident; The Cold Hard Facts of Life; You Got-ta Have a License; When You're Hot You're Hot. Stereo 8 P8S-1587; Cassette PK-1587

Now . . . You can learn a language Anywhere . . . Anytime with these all-new courses

Specially Developed and Produced for RCA Stereo 8 by the famous Institute for Language Study

You'll start speaking your first new words in 5 minutes with these ingenious courses, the first designed with the flexibility and convenience of 8-track stereo tape in mind.

Each cartridge is divided into four lessons—and repeating a lesson is as simple as pushing the program change button of your player. Each lesson utilizes two stereo channels: the foreign language is on one channel . . . the English pronunciation guide, translation or grammar explanation is on the other.

The unique Practice Channel concept enables you to review and proceed as your own progress indicates. For less assistance, merely fade one channel down or out. Review brochure included with each cartridge.

Whether you're a tourist, businessman or student, you'll find each 75-minute tape both fascinating and fun. Best of all, your personal instructor is at hand whenever you want . . . and the whole family learns for the price of one!
